WE CALL ATTENTION to the course of lectures WE CALL ATTENTION to the course of lectures now in course in the West Arch Street Presbyterian Church (Rev. Dr. Willits). Both the themes and the grators are comparatively new and fresh. No one could have listened to the brilliant, instructive, and witty lecture on "Italy," by the Rev. Dr. Alexander Reed of this city, last Tuesday night, and not feel that the money was well invested that secured the intellectual treat. To-night another favorite pulpit erater of our town, Rev. Frank L. Robbins, discourses on "California, Chinese, Mormons, and the Yo Samite Valley" included. A double quartette furnishes exquisite music at each entertainment.

Conseculation of a Boat Club, —At a meeting of the Vesper Boat Club held last evening, it was de-cided to conscildate the Wisahickon Boat Ulub with the former organization, under the many of the Vesper. The latter cinb was in fair way to be-come the best upon the river, and the present emani-zation promises to equal if not surpass all others in numbers, beating excellence, and esprit du corps. At the meeting of the Vesper Club a vote was also passed deciding to withdraw entirely from connec-tion with the Schuylkill Navy.

ARCH STREET M. E. CHURCH.

Completion of the New Edifice at Broad and Arch Streets—A Description of the Building— The Largest and Finest Methodist Church in the Country—The Dedication Programme.

At the moraing service in the chapel of the Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church, on Sunday morning, Rev. Br. Payne, the pastor, announced that the new church edifice adjoining the chapel would be completed and ready for dedication by Thursday at moon of the present week. In the evening the services in the chapel were of a peculiar and interesting character, in keeping with the circumstance that the congregation were then assembled for the last time in the building, which they had so long occupied.

Dr. Payne, after the customary opening exercises, Dr. Payne, after the customary opening exercises, stated that no sermon would be preached, but that the time would be occupied by addresses principally by prominent lay members of the congregation. Before introducing any of the other speakers, however, he dwelt at some length upon the past history and present prosperty of the cauren organization. Eight years ago last spring a number of earnest Christian young men abandoned their old and pleasant church connections to lay the foundation of the new society. They came together from various churches throughout the city, rented the hall in the building on the northeast corner of Broad and Arch streets, immediately opposite the new church Arch streets, immediately opposite the new church building, and by their earnestness, activity, and narmony soon gathered about themselves a flourishing congregation. Dr. Payne questioned whether any other church, either in the city of Philadelphia or other church, either in the city of Philadelphia or out of it, had made as much progress in the same length of time. We have now, he said, a church property unsurpassed in this city or by any Methodist Episcopal church in the whole country; there is, moreover, no heavy debt resting upon it, more than three-fourths of the cost of the new editioe having been aiready liquidated, while the remaining indebtedness could easily be met. This new church, he continued, has not been built to be in the slightest degree of an exclusive character; it has been built for no special, favored class of neople; we want to hear nothing whatever about the poor or the rich among us, and we propose to make provi-sion for any and for all.

Dr. Payne then introduced John Whiteman, Esq., who had been connected with the enterprise almost from the start, and who recalled happily many re-miniscences concerning the founders of the church. He was followed by Colonel Wright, who dwelt with much earnestness upon the sociability and activity which had heretofore characterized the church, and warned its members against the two great dangersunsociability and inactivity—which threatened them, now that the great task of erecting their magnificent place of worship was approaching an end.

Dr. Payne then introduced John M. Maris, asd., and in doing so stated that for the completion of the new church edifice they were indebted to him more than to any other living man, be had given days. than to any other living man; he had given days, and weeks, and years nawcariedly to the arduous and weeks, and years neweariedly to the ardinous task, had watched anxiously over every step taken in the enterprise, and was entitled to just praise for his great zeal and activity. Mr. Maris then addressed the congregation at considerable length, dwelling especially upon the apprehensions which had been entertained and overcome during the progress of the enterprise, and stating, with respect to the last—the fear that the new church building, now that it is competed in too small, that there we are the last—the fear that the new church building, now that it is complete, is too small—that there was no cause for this apprehension, as it is the largest Methodist Episcopal church in the city. Mr. Maris, in conclusion, announced that the sale of the pews in the new building would commence on Wednesday, November 23. Only one-half of the pews would be sold, and these would be scattered all over the publishing the remainder would be reserved for building: the remainder would be reserved for rental, and the finances of the church were in such a state that the rentals could be placed sufficiently low as to allow even the humblest member of the congregation to secure a comfortable sitting.

After other addresses the exercises of the evening were brought to a close by the Rev. James Neili, who eulogized the high spiritual character of the people of the church, and the harmony and activity which had always characterized their labors.

The main building will be dedicated with a series of services commencing on Thursday afternoon next. On that occasion Bishop Simpson will preach, and other noted divines of the Methodist Church will conduct the services on every succeeding evenwill conduct the services on every succeeding evening until Thanksgiving Day. The programme of these services will be published in full on the day previous to the first service.

The building to be dedicated is one of the finest churches in the city, and the largest Methodist church in the country. It is a specimen of pure Gothic, and in that respect is surpassed by but few.
As far as can be ascertained it is, with one exception the country pure Gothic church in white marchle tion, the only pure Gothic church in white marble in the world. The great cathedral at Milan is the

The architect is Mr. Addison Hutton, and his elaborate designs have been strictly carried out in every particular. The outside length of the whole structure, including the chapel, which now forms a transept to the main building, is 13s feet on Broad street by 75 feet on Arch street. The tower, which is of stone to the top, is 22 feet square, and with the spire is 23s feet in height. It is surmounted with an ornamental iron cross with a base of tracery work. The great mass of stone in the tower is estimated to make he seed to both the street when the street is the work and first the weigh 3600 tons, but so good is the work and firm the foundations that not a single crack or flaw can be detected anywhere. In order to obtain foundations for it, it was necessary to go to the depth of 20 feet, where the first stones were laid on a natural bed of water gravel.

The stone-work throughout has been erected with the utmost care. The building committee are greatly satisfied with and highly commend the contractors in that department, Messrs. Copeland and Browning, who, it is said, have done more than they promised. The walls of the tower are strengthened with great solid masses of stone, and in the walls of with great solid masses of stone, and in the walls of the main building long iron bands 8 inches wide by % of an inch in thickness are built near both floor and ceiling, which strengthen the whole and tie the walls firmly together. In the tower similar bands are built into the stone-work, in addition to the large stone stays, and in the spire lighter ones are fixed at intervals of four feet. In the interior the main auditorium is 80 feet in length by 65 in width. The seating capacity is 716 on the ground floor, and including the galleries, which are on three sides, reaches about 900. This is the actual number of comfortable seatings, without regard to the room which can be filled with extra seats in case of necessity.

The celling is in the form of a Gothic arch, and is The cening is in the form of a Gotalic arch, and is 52 feet to the top and 50 feet to the spring. This is elegantly freecoed, the freeco work of the entire church being done by the firm of Walter & Boley. The carpenter work is also of great excellence. It is nearly all of carved and eiled walnut, and is finished in every part with as much care as a piece of walnut furniture. The carpenters were Messrs. Kemp and Garrison, and these gentlemen have also he greatest commendation from the building com-

The front window is the largest stone window in The front window is the largest stone window in the city. It is 16 by 31 feet, and is filled with stained glass, made after the designs of Goglet, of Paris. The design of the side windows was made in Mctz, and it was originally intended to order the entire glass from that town. Had that been done they would probably never have arrived, on account of the European war.

There is also a beautiful circular stained-glass window over the pulpit, made by Brownholtz, Acklin & Co., of this city. It contains three designs, a cross and crown, an eagle feeding her young, and a monagram of the Greek letters Alpha and Gmega.

The floor of the vestibute is laid in tiles. The church is heated by four Reynolds furnaces, and ventilation is provided by means of a novel arrangement. Under every other pew there is a small register, from which the impure air is sucked into a special fine, in which an artificial draft is created by means of heat from the furnaces. In summer, in addition to this, there are openings in the ceiling which can be opened at will, and which are equivawhich can be opened at will, and which are equivalent to thirty square feet of surface. This ventilates both above and below, and the apparatus is probably the best for the purpose in existence.

In every pew hat and book racks are or will be provided. The pulpit is of pure white Lisbon statuary marble, with settings of Aberdeen granite. On either side of the pulpit are stained glass windows with inscriptions. In the north galiery a large organ of fifty-two stops and three finger boards is being erected, which is so arranged as not to hide the large window behind it. The gas fixtures are from Cornelius & Sons, and are very neat and beautiful. The entire sost of the building is $200,000. This is inclusive of the chapel and furniture, but exclusive inclusive of the chapel and furniture, but exclusive of the ground, which cost $35,000 additional. Of this $180,000 has already been subscribed in money and the remainder can easily be raised. It is not in-tended to make any special begging effort on the day of opening to cancel the debt, as the members of the church expect to attend to that matter quietiy. No expense has been spared in any de-partment, and the church is the best that it could partment, and the church is the best that it could possibly be made. No church has ever had more care conferred upon it in its construction.

The first pastor of the organization, which was begun in hold in the hall on the northeast corner of Broad and Arch streets, was the Rev. A. Rittenhouse, who remained two years in charge. He was followed by Rev. R. J. Corson, who remained one year, and is now at Union Church in this city. Rev. J. F. McCle last came next, who remained two years, and is now in Linion Church in this city. Griffith followed Mr. McClelland. He remained one year, and is now in Harrisburg. The present pastor, Rev. C. H. Payne, followed him, and he is now in the third year of his pastorate.

The congregation removed to the chapel in the pastorate of Mr. Corson, which was completed in 1866, the corner-stone having been laid in 1864.

With regard to the services of next Thursday afternoon we are requested to state that the doors will not be open until 2% o'clock, so that those who wish to come earlier in order to procure seats may save themselves that trouble.

SUNDAY SOBRIETY.

An Append to the Mayer by the Good Tem-plars—The Enforcement of the Law Against Selling Liquer on Sunday Demanded. At noon to-day the committee named below waited upon his Honor Mayor Fox, and presented the following document, which fully explains it-

To the Hon. Daniel M. Fox, Mayor of the City of To the Hon. Daniel M. Fox, Mayor of the City of Philadelphia—Honored Sir;—At a regular quarterly convention of the Independent Order of Good Templars, held August 18, 1870, at the northeast corner of Bread and arch streets, Philadelphia, the following revelution was unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That a committee of ten we appointed by the W. C. T. of this convention to draw up a proper memorial, and wait upon the Mayor of the city, requesting him to take such measures as may be in his power to suppress the sale and traffic in intoxicating drinks on the Saubath day.

Whereupon the undersigned were appointed said committee.

MEMORIAL.

In pursuance of the appointment above recited, your memorialists respectfully present to your Honor the following suggestions and requests:—

First. That by the organic law of the city, as appears by citations from the law, it is the duty of the Mayor "to be vigilant and active in causing the Mayor "to be vigilast and scrive in causing the laws to be duly executed," for which purpose "all policemen and watchmen shall obey his orders." It appears also that "the Mayor shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Select Coun cil shall appoint, the policemen and watchmen."

Second. That in addition to the general provisions of the laws bearing on the sale of liquors, the act of 26th of February, 1855, provides a "punishment by indictment," in addition to ancient civil penalities, "against all who sell, trade, or barter in any spiritudes of the desired of t ous or malt liquors, wine, or cider, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday," and against "the keeper or keepers of any hotel, linn, tavern, ale-house, beer-house, or public house or place, who ale-nouse, beer-house, or public house or place, who knowingly allow or permit any spirituous or mait liquors, wine, or cider to be drunk on or within their respective premises."

Third. That these laws are notoriously violated by thousands of persons almost every hour of every Sabbath day, and that such flagrant and numerous violations must take place, sometimes when the police cannot fail to see them.

Your memorialists, therefore, representing as

Your memorialists, therefore, representing as they do a large and respectable portion of our fellow-citizens, members of the societies named, and also representing, as they doubt not they do, the wishes of nearly all the sober, religious, and moral people of this great city, earnestly solicit your Honor to use the power so plainly vested in you by the law for the number and or execution of this by the law for the punishment and prevention of this most mischievous crime.

And your memorialists will ever pray, etc.,

THE ACADEMY OF FINE ABTS has purchased for the sum of $100,000 in cash, of Mr. John Steele, the lot at the S. E. corner of Broad and Cherry streets. This lot is 100 of Broad and Cherry streets. This lot is 100 feet on Broad street and 280 on Cherry street, and is undoubtedly as fine a location as could be selected, for this portion of Broad street will in a few years be one of the handsomest quarters of the city. There is another lot adjoining the one purchased that we hope the Academy will also be able to secure, so as to put up a building that will answer all the requirements of the institution and be an other parts of the street of the street and the security of the street ornsment to the city. The purchase of this lot is an evidence of the right kind of enterprise, and we accept it as an evidence that an effort will be made in the future to conduct the Academy in a manner that will advance the art interests in Philadelphia.
